DEFENDS CHURCH

FATHER TRIVELLI ARRAYS THE EAST OREGONIAN.

Takes Exceptions to Editorial Utterances on Division of Church and State in France—Says Mr. Hanna Looked Up the Influence of the Church as One of the Most Hopeful Signs of the Times—Does Not Believe That Donations From French Peasants' Labor Were Unjust.

Pendleton, Oct. 28.—(Editor East Oregonian.)—You have embodied in your editorial page of Thursday a paper, which is quite misleading in its tone.

It is true that the present struggle between the Catholic church and France is one of the leading issues of international politics.

That the Catholic church has had great moral influence in France is an undesirable fact. But your writer needs not look alarmingly at the fact; nor does he need alarm your readers on that account. Before doing so, it was his duty to show that the general drift of that moral influence has worked for evil; he has done nothing of the kind.

Even the great thinking men of this nation, irrespective of their religious tenets, when they are brought to face the great problems and dangers that now confront us, are not slow in expressing their opinion; and their opinion is that a leading mainstay against our social dangers is the Catholic church with its moral influence.

Mark Hanna stood before President McKinley shortly before the latter was laid low by the assassin's hand, and told him his honest opinion in these words: "Mr. President, there are two things which alone will eventually enable the United States to ride in safety the social storms that are now threatening us: the one is the integrity of the supreme court, the other is the moral force of the Catholic church."

I don't see why your writer calls it a triumph that education has been wrested from the Catholic church in France, and handed over to a system that is distinctively antagonistic to God and religion. It were a triumph could he show that said system has turned out and does turn out more learned and upright men and women than the Catholic church has turned out.

Or does your writer call it a triumph that the French government has violently taken millions and millions of dollars from private schools, dollars that belong by every right to said private schools, when education was wrested from the Catholic church? If such be the triumphs of democracy, God save our land from such democracy.

Why should said writer speak bitter language against the fact that donations were made from time immemorial to institutions of learning in France? Why does he call that a graft? Does he call Carnegie's library donations a graft? Does he call the large donations given by public-minded men to the institutions of learning in his country a graft?

Suppose an unprincipled lot of men were to possess themselves of the legislature and administrative seats of this nation, and enact and carry out a law by which all those donations freely given and lawfully possessed, were to pass to other hands, would said writer call that a triumph of democracy?

Such donations made by the French people from time immemorial are now being forcibly taken from their rightful owners by the French government, and this act is called by your writer "a master stroke of the great campaign of freedom."

GREAT FOOTBALL EVENTS.

Leading American Colleges on the Gridiron Today.

New York, Oct. 29.—An excellent array of football games is on today's calendar for the critics of the sport to witness and ponder over. Everyone of the big four will be seen on the gridiron. In this city keen interest is taken in the Yale-Columbia game which is played for the first time at American League park. Harvard and Pennsylvania play at Cambridge, and Princeton and Cornell at Ithaca. West Point meets Williams, and the Carlisle Indians and the University of Virginia line up at Norfolk.

In the West the principal contests on the day's schedule are Chicago and Illinois at Chicago, Minnesota and Nebraska at Minneapolis, Grinnell and Drake at Des Moines, Iowa and Ames at Iowa City, DePauw and Northwestern at Evanston, Purdue and Missouri at St. Louis, Indiana and Ohio State at Bloomington, Kansas and Washburn college at Topeka, and Wisconsin and Michigan at Madison.

ADMISSION FEE CHARGED.

Indianian Speculates on His Marriage Celebration.

Evansville, Ind., Oct. 29.—James Sutton, of this city, who has been selling fish at the county fairs of Southern Indiana for almost 30 years, and who is known as "the boneless fish king of America," is to be married tomorrow night and he has engaged the largest hall in the city for the ceremony. He will sell tickets of admission and expects to realize enough to pay for his honeymoon trip.

Sutton is one of the odd characters of Southern Indiana and Illinois, and a few years ago wrote a book entitled "The Ups and Downs of a Young Married Man." Tomorrow's wedding will be his fifth matrimonial venture. He has been divorced four times.

Newbro's Herpicide

The Original Remedy that "kills the Dandruff Germ."

THE HUNTERS CAME TOO LATE!

THEIR FAITHFUL DOG HAS POINTED OUT THE TRUE REMEDY TO PREVENT BALDNESS, BUT THE HUNTERS CAME TOO LATE—CHRONIC BALDNESS IS INCURABLE.

HERPICIDE A "HAIR-SAVER."
Newbro's Herpicide saves the hair by destroying the germ or microbe that is known to be the cause of dandruff, falling hair and baldness. In chronic baldness the hair follicles are completely trophied, causing the scalp to shrink and shine; little can be done in such cases except to save the remaining "fringe," and this is well worth saving, for it offers some protection against the cold.

The "Hair Grower" is a fallacy. It requires but a slight knowledge of anatomy to know that the hair gets its life and strength from the hair-papilla at the bottom of the hair follicle, and the papilla in turn gets its nourishment direct from the blood; therefore, nature is the only true hair grower. There are enemies of hair growth that cause hair loss and baldness. Invisible microbe growths enter the sebaceous glands, situated at the top of the hair follicles (Dr. Sabouraud of Paris, says the microbe usually enters the scalp in youth,) where one colony after another is established, until finally, after months and sometimes years, there is dandruff, itching scalp and falling hair. The Sebum also solidifies, causing dry, lustreless and brittle hair. Destroy this microbe growth with Newbro's Herpicide, and protect the hair against infection, and it will grow as nature intended.
